With over 16 years of experience in accounting and managing business risk, Audit Partner, Stephanie Tsiagkas, specializes in revenue recognition and venture capital funds.

Stephanie works extensively with venture-backed, emerging technology companies with an emphasis on the software and semiconductor industries. She is an expert in financial and management reporting.

Stephanie also has received certification in blockchain technology from the AICPA and CIMA. She understands the current landscape, business applications and financial control considerations associated with blockchain use as well as regulatory concerns and governance related to blockchain implementations.

Stephanie is the recipient of the YWCA Tribute to Women Award, which recognizes women exemplifying excellence in executive-level positions.

Stephanie received her Bachelor's degree in Accounting from Santa Clara University in 1996. She is a licensed CPA in the State of California. Outside of work, Stephanie serves on the Santa Clara University Accounting Advisory board. In her free time she enjoys skiing, biking, and spending time with her family.
